Re: 2009 Video Service Report

Dear Ms. Martinez:

On behalf of the Missouri Public Service Commission, I am pleased to forward our annual report on developments resulting from the implementation of the 2007 Video Service Providers Act. As provided in Section 67.2693 RSMo, the Commission is required to submit its findings to the General Assembly by August 28, 2009. The report contains specific information related to state-issued video service authorizations such as the status of video service competition, customer service, rates, and complaints. This report notes twenty-seven providers offer video service through 656 state-issued video authorizations as of June 1, 2009. These authorizations correspond to 486 distinct political subdivisions or 45% of all political subdivisions in Missouri.

I hope you find this information useful. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Very truly yours,

Robert M. Clayton III

Executive Summary

The 2007 Video Services Providers Act (also referred to as the Act) became effective on August 28, 2007. This Act extended authority to the Missouri Public Service Commission (Commission) to authorize the provisioning of video service in a particular area. The Act requires the Commission to issue a report on August 28, 2008 and for the next three years thereafter pertaining to developments resulting from the implementation of the Act. These reports are limited to the extent the information is supplied only by companies that have sought state-issued video service authorization. In other words information is not obtained from any provider solely providing video service using locally-issued authorization to provide video service. If the General Assembly intends for the Commission to produce more complete information for future reports, additional guidance and authority will need to be provided.

Given these considerations the Missouri Commission makes the following limited findings:

- Twenty-seven providers provide video service through 656 state-issued video authorizations as of June 1, 2009. These authorizations correspond to 486 distinct political subdivisions or 45% of all political subdivisions in Missouri.<sup>2</sup>
- Among the 656 state-issued video authorizations granted since the Act's implementation, companies will have initiated video service by August 27, 2009 for 600 while 56 state-issued video authorizations will not have video service implemented by this date.
- Video service competition among the 656 state-issued video authorizations are nearly equally split based on competition from providers subject to the Act. <sup>3</sup> For example, providers cite wireline video service competition for 320 authorizations while 336 authorizations do not currently indicate a wireline video service competitor. <sup>4</sup>
- Video service providers receiving state-issued video authorization will invest over $123,852,392 in new investment to provide video service within Missouri

and pay nearly $23,797,973 in franchise fees to political subdivisions during the time period from August 28, 2008 through August 27, 2009.

- Video service rates for providers receiving state-issued video service authorization have either remained unchanged or increased. No provider has decreased video service rates.
- Customer service requirements for video service have been adopted in only 77 of the 579 state-issued video service authorizations.

More detailed information concerning these findings as well as additional information on video-related issues is contained in the remainder of this report. The Missouri Commission's reporting requirement to the General Assembly also includes an expectation to propose recommendations as appropriate to benefit consumers. At this time the Missouri Public Service Commission is not recommending the General Assembly re-visit this legislation. However, if the General Assembly is inclined to review the Act, the Missouri Commission makes several recommendations which are described later in this report.

The 2007 Video Services Providers Act

The 2007 Video Services Providers Act was established through passage of Senate Bill No. 284. The bill became effective on August 28, 2007. The Act describes several General Assembly findings and declarations such as: consumers deserve the benefit of competition among all providers of video programming; creating a process for securing a state-issued video service authorization will promote the substantial interest of the state of Missouri by facilitating a competitive marketplace that will encourage investment and deploy new and innovative services; and political subdivisions will benefit by receiving new revenues and experience cost savings associated with the administrative convenience of state-issued video service authorization.<sup>5</sup>

One of the primary provisions of the 2007 Video Services Providers Act is the establishment of authority for the Missouri Commission to authorize the provisioning of video service in a particular area. The bill also removes the ability of any political subdivision to issue a video service authorization. If a company has been providing video service under local authorization, the company can either continue to provide video service under the existing local authorization or alternatively convert to a state-issued video service authorization. The Missouri Commission's video authorization process, forms and other information is available on the Commission's web site at: http://psc.mo.gov/video-service-franchise/video-service-franchise.

Background Information in Preparing this Report

The preparation of this report is based on Commission records, survey responses, and feedback on initial drafts of this report. Video service providers receiving authorization from the Missouri Commission for the provisioning of video services as of June 1, 2009 were given a survey. The survey attempts to gather information from the video service providers related to the provisioning of video service. An initial report was then drafted. The draft report was posted on the Commission's web site and feedback was solicited from any interested parties. The report has been modified to reflect feedback received.

Except where otherwise noted this report provides information from the video service providers and areas receiving authorization by June 1, 2009. This date was selected for ease in preparing this report because the number of video service providers and areas receiving authorization is constantly increasing. In this respect this report may be more appropriately viewed as providing a snapshot based on video authorizations granted by June 1, 2009 rather than August 28, 2009.

This report will discuss the video service providers who have sought video service authorization from the Missouri Commission followed by an analysis of the authorized video service areas. Video service availability within the areas such as when providers initiated video service and the percentage of households with access to a provider's video service will be analyzed. This report will provide a brief overview of the status of video service competition. Relevant topics related to video customer service will be addressed such as video service rates, PEG channels, a political subdivision's option to adopt customer service requirements and complaints.

Video Service Providers

Twenty-seven providers currently provide video service under video service authorization granted by the Missouri Commission which compares to twenty-three providers in last year's report. During the past year, five companies have been added to this list. Two companies have been removed from this list after transferring all state-issued video authorization to another video service provider. One company also changed its name during the past year after a merger. The resulting twenty-seven

providers should not be considered a comprehensive list of all video service providers in Missouri. Instead this number only reflects the number of providers receiving video service authorization from the Missouri Commission.

Based on survey responses for state-issued authorized areas, the twenty-seven video service providers furnish video service to 698,151 Missouri customers, a 20% increase from last year. According to survey responses these video service providers will invest a total of $123,852,392 in new investment to provide video services in Missouri from August 28, 2008 through August 28, 2009.<sup>11</sup> In addition, during this same time period these providers project to cumulatively pay $23,797,973 in franchise fees to political subdivisions in Missouri.<sup>12</sup>

Video Service Authorizations

During the past year the number of state-issued video service authorizations has grown from 438 authorizations cited in last year's report to 656 authorizations which represents a 50% increase of 218 authorizations. Schedule No. 1 lists the twenty-seven video service providers who are currently registered with the Commission for the provisioning of video service as of June 1, 2009. This schedule also identifies the number of state-issued video service authorizations for each video service provider. Based on survey question responses, the authorizations are organized based on whether video authorization has been converted from local authorization to state-issued authorization or solely issued by the Missouri Commission. This information for all twenty-seven video service providers is summarized below:

State-Issued Video Authorizations
Video Authorization History	Number of Authorizations
Converted from local to state-issued authorization	353
Authorization solely state-issued	303
Total Number of State-Issued Authorizations <sup>14</sup>	656

&lt;sup>11</sup> For comparative purposes this investment total is down from the $213,501,657 cited for August 28, 2007 to August 28, 2008 time period. It should be noted that in responding to this year's survey some providers were unable to project investment past the time frame for providing survey responses.

&lt;sup>13</sup> A video service authorization gives a provider the authority to offer video service within a political subdivision. The Missouri Commission has granted video service authorization to six areas not formally recognized by the Missouri Secretary of State; however these six areas are included in this report's figures as though they are officially recognized political subdivisions. The six areas are Dawn, Drake, Glasgow Village, Racine, St. Cloud and Tiff City.

It should be noted these numbers reflect one company's recent request to rescind stateissued video service authorization in a number of political subdivisions. Schedule No. 2 is a list of the specific areas with state-issued video authorization as of June 1, 2009 along with the name each video service provider.<sup>15</sup>

The number of video authorizations correlates to 486 areas or political subdivisions since the Commission has granted video service authorization to multiple providers for the same area. In comparison, last year's report cited 438 state-issued authorizations which translated into 333 areas. In this regard the number of areas with state-issued authorization appears to have grown by 153 areas or 46%. The number of areas based on the number of providers with state-issued video service authorization for this year's results is shown in the following table:

Distinct Areas
Number of Providers	Number of Areas	Total Authorizations
1 provider	341	341
2 providers	128	256
3 providers	10	30
4 providers	6	24
5 providers	1	5
Total	486	656

These numbers should be carefully interpreted and not necessarily be viewed as a gauge for video service competition. For example, these numbers do not reflect whether video service is currently being provided, but rather only that the Missouri Commission has granted video service authorization to a provider for that area. Some authorizations pertain to counties and multiple providers may or may not provide video service within the same areas in the county. In addition, some video service providers establish joint ventures with other providers to provide video service to an area and both providers may have applied for authorization. Also note this information is based solely on video service authorizations granted by the Missouri Commission and does not include locallyissued video service authorizations.

An up-to-date list identifying the specific political subdivision areas granted to each provider is available on the Missouri Commission's web site at: https://www.efis.psc.mo.gov/mpsc/VideoFranchiseAuthorization.html. 16 This list provides such additional information as the initial fee imposed by a political subdivision, case number and whether the application has been approved or is pending. In addition this list provides a link to any video service provider's case file enabling immediate access to any and all information filed in the case.

Video Service Availability in Authorized Areas

Among the video service authorizations granted by the Missouri Commission the video service provider may have already been providing video service to the area prior to the implementation of the Act. Alternatively a provider may have initiated video service after receiving state-issued authorization or a provider may have not yet established video service. Listed below is the video service provider's time line for providing video service in an area with state-issued video authorization:

Video Service Initiation Status in State-Issued Authorized Areas
The date the requesting company initiated	Number of video service to the area	Authorizations
Pre-August 28, 2007	353
August 28, 2007 through August 27, 2008	166
August 28, 1008 to August 27, 2009	81
Implementation date set after August 27, 2009	4
No implementation date set at this time	52
Total	656

These numbers deserve further explanation when compared with figures contained in last year's report. For example the number of authorizations where video service was initiated prior to August 28, 2007 grew from 192 to 353. This increase appears to be based on video service providers switching from locally issued video service authorization to state-issued authorization for a particular area. In addition, last year's report in comparison with this year's report experienced a slight increase in the number of areas where service was initiated for the first year after implementing the Act. This difference is primarily due to the timing of preparing last year's report. As noted in last year's report the number of video service authorizations is constantly changing and several providers had video service applications pending after the June 1, 2008 video survey response deadline.

In order to try and gauge the availability of a provider's video service in a given area, each video service provider was asked to provide the percentage of households that can access the provider's video service. This information does not attempt to measure the percentage of households subscribing to a provider's video service but rather simply what percentage of households have the capability to subscribe to the provider's video service. These numbers also do not attempt to distinguish between political subdivisions

&lt;sup>18</sup> Last year's report indicates 153 areas had video service initiated between August 28, 2007 and September 2008. This year's report has a slightly different time period of August 28, 2007 through August 27, 2008 and indicates 166 areas initiated video service within this time period.

based on whether a political subdivision is a city or a county. This information is summarized below:

Households with access to provider's video service <sup>20</sup>
Percentage of Households	Number of Authorizations
0%	38
1% to 25%	189
26% to 50%	19
51% to 75%	19
76% to 100%	391
Total	656

Video Service Competition

One of the Act's policy initiatives is to promote competition among all providers of video programming. Video service providers receiving authorization from the Missouri Commission were asked to quantify the number of video service authorizations with 0, 1, 2, or 3+ competitors, respectively, excluding satellite-based competitors such as DishNetwork or DirectTV. Company responses suggest among the 656 state-issued authorizations, competition appears to be split. Providers cite wireline video service competition for 320 authorizations (or 49%) versus 336 authorizations (or 51%) without any wireline video competition. This information is summarized below:

Video Competition
Number of video competitors	Number of Authorizations <sup>22</sup>
0	336
1	260
2	56
Total	656

The process used to tabulate these numbers should be further explained in order to more fully understand these numbers. The approach used for this year's report differs from last year's report. In brief, last year's report provides competitive results based on areas while this year's report attempted to ease survey reporting by providing competitive results based on authorizations. For example, this year's report asked providers to simply quantify the number of state-issued video authorizations with 0 competitors, 1 competitor, 2 competitors and 3 or more competitors. In contrast, last year's report asked providers to list each authorized area and cite the wire line competitors within the area, if any, whereby each company's responses were subsequently combined and then sorted by area. The results obtained for this year's report may admittedly over-state the extent of competition.<sup>23</sup> Regardless of the approach the results for this year and last year are tempered by the fact a video service provider may only have the capability to offer video service to a portion of the households within an area. Likewise, either approach ignores satellite-based providers which may under-state the extent of video service competition.

&lt;sup>20</sup> One company does not maintain this data on a political subdivision basis, but did provide a statewide total. This company's information was inserted into this data on the assumption all of its areas have the same statewide percentage of households with access to the company's video service.

&lt;sup>22</sup> One company's response to the survey question is "Unknown; may refer to authorizations granted." Nevertheless, this company did provide area-specific responses for last year's report which were incorporated into these results. This company also obtained ten additional authorizations within the past year. Competition was assumed for these additional authorizations if another provider received state-issued authorization for the same area.

Based on the differing approach used for this year, comparisons with last year's report might still be possible if the 336 authorizations with no competition are assumed to correspond to 336 different areas. This assumption might be considered reasonable because of the expectation for competition to be cited if multiple providers have video authorization for the same area. The application of this assumption suggests the 320 authorizations with competition (260+56+4=320) may translate to 150 areas. In comparison, last year's report indicated 138 areas have video service competition. Such information suggests most of the 218 new authorizations granted within the past year may be in areas which currently do not have any video service competition. In this respect during the past year video service providers may primarily be expanding video service to unserved areas versus initiating service within areas where video service competition already exists.

Customer Service

Video Service Rates

Video service providers were requested to provide certain video service rate information including the identification of any rate adjustments for video service during the past year. The monthly rate for a company's least expensive basic video service tier ranged from $9.99 to $99.95. In general, most companies' rates have increased only a few dollars due to increased operational cost; while others have not changed at all. None of the companies surveyed experienced a decrease in rates. Most companies also offer Internet and voice services. Various packages for these services are offered by the company. For example, many companies offer price savings if the customer subscribes to the package of video, Internet and voice services. The average monthly rate for a

&lt;sup>23</sup> For example, if five different providers cite competition for what is ultimately the same political subdivision or area, this table's results reflects competition for 5 authorizations rather than competition in one area. In contrast, last year's report would simply reflect for this example that competition exists for one area

Last year's report cites two slightly different figures for political subdivisions with competition. Survey responses indicated 144 political subdivisions with competition; however Schedule No. 2 of last year's report reflects 138 political subdivisions with competition. Schedule No. 2 of last year's report did not count a political subdivision as having competition if the cited competitor denied serving the political subdivision.

package that includes video, Internet and voice services is $101.00.<sup>27</sup> The typical total monthly bill for a company's average video customer is $65.00.<sup>28</sup> Listed below is the percentage of customers subscribing to the various packages of services:

Percentage of Customers Subscribing to Video Service Packages <sup>29</sup>
Services	Percentage of Customers
Solely video service	38%
Video and Internet services	30%
Video and voice services	4%
Video, Internet and voice services	28%
Total	100%

Public, Educational, or Governmental (PEG) Channels

The Act contains requirements relating to the provision of public, educational or governmental (PEG) channels.<sup>30</sup> For example, a franchise entity can require a video service provider to provide up to three PEG channels depending on the franchise entity's population. Additional conditions, including the ability to remove PEG channels, are contained in this statute. The video service providers were requested to identify their cumulative total of political subdivisions served with a certain number of PEG channels. Based on company responses listed below are the numbers of political subdivisions with PEG channel offerings:

Number of Authorizations Based on PEG Channel Availability
0 PEG	1 PEG	2 PEGs	3+ PEGs
289	87	37	243

In general, video service providers have maintained the same number of PEG channels for a political subdivision during the past twelve months. For example, in the past year, the number of PEG channels has not changed for 624 political subdivisions and 32 political subdivisions have seen an increase. No political subdivisions have seen a decrease in PEG channels.

&lt;sup>29</sup> Video providers supplied percentage information in their survey responses; however each provider's percentages were subsequently weighted by the provider's number of video subscribers. Windjammer Communications LLC failed to provide information for this table; consequently this company's lines are excluded from calculating the table's percentages. <sup>30</sup> Section 67.2703 RSMo.

Adoption of Customer Service Requirements

The Act allows a political subdivision to adopt certain customer service requirements.<sup>31</sup> Among the twenty-seven video service providers, customer service requirements have been adopted in 77 political subdivisions. Customer service requirements have not been adopted in 579 political subdivisions. Providers were queried as to why relatively few political subdivisions adopt customer service requirements. Company responses generally state they strive to offer a good product in order to remain competitive in the market and therefore are meeting adequate consumer standards without formal adoption of specific customer service requirements.

Complaints

Each video service provider was asked to quantify the average number of consumer video service complaints per month for their total Missouri video service area. In addition, providers were asked if this number has been increasing, decreasing or has remained relatively stable. Responses varied whereby providers claim to receive an average of 0 to 376 complaints each month with overall complaint quantities remaining relatively stable. According to the video service providers, the most common types of video service complaints are technical questions, such as remote and set top box questions, picture clarity and channel disruption.

The Missouri Commission does not have jurisdiction to address video service complaints.<sup>32</sup> Nevertheless, consumers have contacted the Commission to complain as evidenced by the 7 video-related complaints and inquiries received for the past twelve months. In comparison the Missouri Commission received 68 video-related complaints from August 2007 through mid-July 2008. The issues associated with all of these complaints primarily pertain to service quality and billing issues.

A political subdivision has the authority to request nonbinding mediation or file a complaint against video service providers.<sup>33</sup> Such action may be taken to address repeated, willful and material violations. To date, no such requests have been made by any political subdivision with the administrative hearing commission.

Missouri Commission Recommendations

The Act directs the Missouri Commission to make recommendations in this report as it deems appropriate to benefit consumers. The Missouri Commission has no recommendations to significantly reform the 2007 Video Services Providers Act; however, if the General Assembly decides to immediately revisit this legislation, then the Missouri Commission made four recommendations in its initial report. The Missouri Commission continues to support these four recommendations and has no new recommendations

These recommendations are:

- 1. Provide guidance on content for future report.
- 2. Require video service providers to maintain and produce certain information for this report.
- 3. Eliminate the requirement for the Commission to post franchise fee.
- 4. Create a provision for video service authorization in a specific area to be null and void if not exercised within a reasonable time period.

The rationale and explanations for these recommendations are contained in the Missouri Commission's initial report located at: http://psc.mo.gov/video-service-franchise/video-service-franchise under "Video Report."
